I..DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named enlisted man :

Sergeant Frank F. Aiello (Army serial No. _____), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company M, 39th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action at Kasserine Pass, Tunisia, on 20 February 1943. While serving as leader of a section of machine guns, he was painfully wounded by an enemy grenade. Although ordered to seek first aid, he refused to leave his position, which was under heavy enemy attack, but continued to direct his section in repelling those attacks. Several hours later, when the platoon sector became untenable as a result of enemy penetrations and withdrawal to a new position though heavy machine-gun fire was ordered, Sergeant Aiello elected to remain behind, firing a machine gun at the advancing enemy to protect the withdrawal of his men by drawing to himself the fire and attention of the enemy. In so doing, he was mortally wounded.

II..DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (third Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility is awarded to the following-named officer.

General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, _____, United States Army. As Chief of Staff, United States Army.

III..SILVER STAR.—1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers :

First Lieutenant Juan M. Duyan, _____ (then second lieutenant), Infantry, Philippine Army, commanding the 3d Platoon, Company F, 11th Infantry, Philippine Army, from 7 to 9 February 1942, displayed gallantry in action near Pilar-Bagac Road, Bataan, Philippine Islands. He led his platoon in a counterattack against a greatly superior enemy force, but unable to reestablish contact with the regiment, he directed the men to organize for defense. Digging fox holes with bayonets and sharpened bamboo, and with few rifles, little ammunition, and no food, the platoon held the position against repeated Japanese attacks. For 2 days Lieutenant Duyan led the vallant unit in a desperate defense until, finally, other units fought through. Then, resupplied with food and ammunition, the platoon immediately joined in a series of attacks and destroyed the enemy who penetrated the position. Courageously leading the platoon through a 2-day sloge under repeated enemy infantry and fire attacks, Lieutenant Duyan aided greatly in limiting the hostile penetration and contributed to the destruction of the enemy force.

Captain William W. Jean, (then first Lieutenant), Cavalry, Army of the United States, as platoon leader, Troop F, 7th Cavalry, on 19 March 1944, displayed gallantry in action on Manus Island, Bismark Archipelago. Leading his unit on combat reconnaissance, he suddenly ran into heavy enemy machine-gun fire, which killed or wounded several of the platoon. Quickly, he made a check of the terrain under the continuing fire. Discovering a large bunker as the key to the enemy location, he designated positions for the platoon and, with one other man, crawled forward. Suddenly, he signaled the other man to open fire on the enemy position. With a grenade in each hand, Captain Jean made a lone assault on the enemy bunker, throwing the grenades through the gun slit and dropping to the ground. Crawling back quickly to the platoon, he assembled his men and directed the systematic clearing of the remaining enemy force. Through his personal courage and outstanding leadership, Captain Jean accomplished the elimination of the dangerous enemy position, which enabled the platoon to continue its advance.

2. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the period indicated was awarded by Headquarters, Philippine Coast Artillery Command, Fort Mills, Philippine Islands, to the following-named enlisted man:

Technical Sergeant Walter J. Wasilewski (Army serial No.) (then corporal), Medical Department, United States Army, a member of Company A, 803d Engineer Battalion (Aviation), on 24 March 1942, displayed gallantry in action at Corregidor, Philippine Islands. During a heavy Japanese bombardment and shelling of the Kindley Field and vicinity, in which several men were severely wounded, he moved without regard for his safety through the barrage of enemy shells to aid the fallen men. Passing through an area of tall grass blazing among stacks of bombs in imminent danger of exploding, he helped move the wounded soldiers to the hospital in Malinta Tunnel. Sergeant Wasilewski's outstanding courage and determination are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service.

VIII--BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, Bul. 3, WD, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the periods indicated is awarded the following-named officers and enlisted men:

Sergeant Ramon Abalon (), Infantry, Philippine Army, a member of Company E, 11th Infantry, Philippine Army, on 9 February 1942, distinguished himself by heroic achievement near Pilar-Bagac Road, Bataan, Philippine Islands. Seeing that the tanks soon lost direction in the dense jungle growth, in a tank and Infantry attack against a strong enemy force, he voluntarily climbed atop one of the vehicles and guided it through the jungle. Exposed to the full range of enemy fire atop the advancing tank, he sent a stream of bullets into an enemy machine-gun nest from the tank anti-aircraft gun. Then, seeing one of the tanks disabled and surrounded by hostile soldiers, he led a group of men and, with a captured enemy mortar, killed several of the enemy and dispersed the remainder, thereby saving the tank and its crew from capture. Despite a serious wound suffered in the attack, Sergeant Abalon continued to demonstrate his outstanding courage, leadership, and determination and contributed greatly to the success of the attack until relieved by a supporting force.

First Lieutenant Carl M. Blevins, (then second lieutenant), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company L, 39th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in Tunisia, French North Africa, on 21 February 1943. The mission of the company was the defense of a mountain ridge west of Kasserine Pass. During the morning, the enemy overran the position and the remnants of Company L were forced back, leaving the 2d Platoon to cover the withdrawal. Lieutenant Blevins, although painfully wounded, retained control of his platoon and, showing great courage and heroism, enabled the remnants of the company to fall back and reorganize in a new position. After completing his mission, he ordered what few men were left in his platoon to retire and covered their withdrawal. Lieutenant Blevins sacrificed his safety for his men and was captured. His courageous actions were highly commendable.

Sergeant Johnie T. Carter (Army serial No.) (then private first class), Chemical Warfare Service, United States Army, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in the Philippine Islands on 7 April 1942. During the defense of Bataan, when one of his comrades was wounded by enemy mortar fire and unable to walk, he carried this soldier for a mile through the jungle to where five other soldiers lay wounded. He then attracted a passing jeep and evacuated all six to a hospital through enemy fire. Sergeant Carter's actions reflect great credit on himself.

Major Georae J. Heil, Jr., (then captain), Infantry, United States Army, a member of the 16th Infantry Regiment and commanding Company F, on 22 March 1943, distinguished himself by heroic achievement near El Guettar, Tunisia. With his company leading an assault in the face of intense enemy mortar, artillery, and small-arms fire, and seeing the danger to the men and possible failure of the attack if the unit became pinned down by the curtain of fire, Major Heil quickly placed himself at the head of the company and, though wounded, courageously led the men forward through the narrow pass. Reaching the other side and placing the men in effective positions under the continuing enemy fire, he was again wounded seriously and was evacuated. Major Heil demonstrated outstanding courage and aggressive leadership in leading his company in the face of heavy enemy fire.

2. By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, Bul. 3, WD, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Major Leonard R. Generson, (then captain), Medical Corps, Army of the United States, distinguished himself by heroic achievement, on 15 August 1944, during the invasion of southern France. During the landing, an LST carrying heavy elements of the assault force was hit by a guided missile. Fire broke out and ignited vehicles loaded with gasoline and ammunition. The ship was beached and abandoned. Major Generson, who had previously landed, returned to the beach and throughout the imminent hazards of mines, enemy airplanes, and artillery fire, together with ammunition from the exploding LST, continued to search the area for wounded, and to give them quick and efficient medical aid. His heroic action, quick thinking, and professional skill were an inspiration to those working with him and reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

3. By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. I, Bul. 3, WD, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal (second Oak-Leaf Cluster) for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Major Gordon O. Fraser, (then captain), Field Artillery, Army of the United States, a member of Headquarters, 863d Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic achievement, on 4 March 1945, in the vicinity of Bubingen, Germany. As liaison officer with the battalion, he was following a company in an attack. In the course of this attack, the company advanced across open ground and the enemy fired on them, disorganizing the company. Major Fraser, disregarding his personal safety, immediately exposed himself to heavy enemy fire to talk to the leaders and the men, restore their confidence, and reorganize the company. The courage and leadership displayed by Major Fraser reflect credit on himself and the armed forces of the United States. (This award supersedes the award of the Bronze Star Medal (second Oak-Leaf Cluster) for meritorious achievement to Major Fraser, during the same period, as published in General Orders 633, 63d Infantry Division, 30 August 1945.)
