2. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) for gallantry in action during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Captain Francis J. McDougall, _____, Medical Corps, Army of the United States, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against the enemy near Gathemo, France, on 10 August 1944. Captain McDougall was serving as surgeon of the 2d Battalion, 100th Infantry Regiment. His battalion commander was fatally wounded while leading an attack and in the subsequent action a readjustment of lines was made, leaving the wounded commander within the lines occupied by the enemy. Captain McDougall called for three volunteers and led them forward under artillery and mortar fire to recover the commander's body. His heroic action was an inspiration to all who witnessed it.

First Lieutenant Thomas G. Roberts, Jr., United States Air Force, displayed heroism on 8 May 1948 at Furstenfeldbruck Air Force Base, Germany. As navigator of B-20 aircraft 2064, which struck a slight rise of ground on take-off and exploded, Lieutenant Roberts chose to go back through the tunnel in an attempt to find Staff Sergeant Garnel C. Lackemy, radio operator, rather than leave the burning airplane by way of the engineer's escape hatch. Unsuccessful in his attempt, he made his way back to his station only to find all emergency exits blocked. By this time, his clothes were a mass of flame. He tried to open the astrodome, but found the release inoperative; however, by smashing his head against the dome, he finally broke his way out. Lieutenant Roberts, placing all fear of personal safety aside in his heroic effort to rescue Sergeant Lackemy, displayed cool courage, fortitude, and valor, far and above the normal call of duty, which reflect the highest possible credit on him and the United States Air Force.

He swam through ice cold water to the assistance of two survivors clinging to a life raft and aided in cutting it loose from the burning airplane, after which he swam and pushed the life raft ahead of him, with two survivors still clinging to it, until picked up by a boat. Sergeant Tracy's utter disregard for personal safety, his initiative, and devotion to duty under dangerous and trying circumstances reflect great credit on himself and the United States Air Force.
