Major Celso dos Santos Meyer, Brazilian Army. 31 May 1957 to 15 February 1959.

IV. SOLDIER'S MEDAL. By direction of the President under the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved 2 July 1926, a Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy is awarded to:

Major Robert M. Berger, , Artillery, Army of the United States, a member of Headquarters, 1st Howitzer Battalion, 2d Artillery, distinguished himself by heroism on 15 June 1959, at Baumholder Army Airfield, Germany. Major Berger was a passenger in an L-19A, Army aircraft that crashed while the pilot was landing. As the aircraft came to rest after cartwheeling and skidding backwards over the ground for 50 feet, it immediately caught fire around the engine. Major Berger evacuated the aircraft and was a few feet from the door when he heard the pilot call for assistance. He voluntarily returned to help the pilot extricate his right leg from the collapsed forward portion of the cockpit, despite the flames that were coming out from under the engine cowling and spreading up the windshield, threatening to explode the gas tanks at any second. Suffering from a fractured left shoulder and two fractured vertebrae, Major Berger persisted in his efforts until he freed the pilot's leg and assisted him away from the burning aircraft shortly before the cockpit burst into flames. Major Berger's unselfishness and prompt courageous action saved the pilot from severe burns or possible death, reflecting great credit on himself and the military service.

Specialist Four Wayne F. Chayer, _____, Corps of Engineers, United States Army, a member of H/S Company, 84th Engineer Battalion (Construction), Fort Ord, California, distinguished himself by heroism on 2 April 1959, in the vicinity of Spreckels, California. While performing duty as crane driver-operator on the Decomposed Granite Excavation Project, Specialist Chayer arrived on the scene and found the 20-ton truck-mounted crane which he operated parked on a steep slope. After determining that the crane was out of gas, he sent a fellow soldier after a bulldozer to tow it. Minutes later the heavily weighted crane started to roll perilously down the mountain. Without hesitation and with complete disregard for his own personal safety, Specialist Chayer jumped into the driver's compartment of the crane and made a courageous and desperate attempt to stop it. Unable to impede its speed and realizing there were only seconds to spare, Specialist Chayer veered the rolling crane into the side of the mountain and prevented it from leaving the road. This timely action undoubtedly saved the lives of fellow soldiers working in the immediate vicinity and of civilians living in homes at the foot of the mountain. The prompt courage and selfless, heroic actions taken by Specialist Chayer in this sudden emergency are worthy of emulation, and reflect distinct credit on himself and the military service.

Specialist Five Thomas I. Scott, _____, United States Army, a medical corpsman of the 215th General Dispensary, distinguished himself by heroism at Trois Fontaines, France on 8 May 1959. In response to an ambulance call, Specialist Scott found a soldier pinned and completely hidden under an overturned Army Engineer gradeall excavator. As three wrecker units strained to raise the huge piece of equipment in an effort to free the trapped man, gasoline and oil spilled from the machine, further increasing the danger involved. Immediately after the overstrained wrecker units had hoisted the vehicle approximately six inches, Specialist Scott dropped to the ground and worked himself under the several suspended tons of metal through broken glass, spilled gasoline and debris and managed to reach the injured man. Without regard for his own personal safety and with the full understanding that the slightest human or mechanical failure would be fatal for him, Specialist Scott persisted in his efforts until he freed the pinned operator and assisted him to safety. The high sense of duty, prompt courage, and brave actions displayed by Specialist Scott by risking his life in this emergency to save that of his fellow soldier are worthy of emulation, and reflect distinct credit on himself and the military service.
