II. SILVER STAR. 1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved 9 July 1918, a Silver Star for gallantry in action is awarded to:

Captain (then First Lieutenant) George Quamo, O5307391, United States Army, distinguished himself by gallantry in action on 27 March 1963 while serving as Assistant Battalion Adviser to the 3d Battalion, 33d Regiment, 21st Infantry Division, Army of the Republic of Vietnam. On 27 March 1963, during the 21st Infantry Division Operation Due Thang 8/42, Captain Quamo accompanied the lead left company which was part of the Battalion task force attacking south to close with and destroy the Viet Cong. The Viet Cong had been forced into a holding position by the attacking 3d Battalion, plus Division forces that were blocking and/or attacking from the west and south. Forced to hold, the two Viet Cong Battalions, plus a new and partially organized Battalion, attempted to draw the 3d Battalion into the area and then encircle and destroy it. Closing into the area, the 2d Company, which

Captain Quamo accompanied, was pinned down by heavy enemy fire. The 2d Company placed a .30 Caliber machine gun into a forward firing position which gave supporting fires for all of the maneuvering companies. This was the only forward employed machine gun and Captain Quamo observed that the gun was out of operation despite the efforts of the gun crew. Realizing this would leave the company without supporting fires and would jeopardize the maneuvering of the other two companies, Captain Quamo, with complete disregard for his own personal safety, moved through heavy enemy fire to the forward machine gun and remedied the machine gun failure, putting it back into action. Later, when the companies were ordered to attack, the company commander was hesitant in making a bold move forward against heavy enemy fire, whereupon Captain Quamo persuaded him to rally the 2d Company. The company commander was inspired by his courage and moved the company rapidly forward. Captain Quamo's sound knowledge of military tactics and weapons, his heroic and quick actions and his steadfast advisory efforts during this engagement while the Battalion was under constant heavy fire for four hours won for him and the United States advisory effort very favorable recognition through Vietnamese channels. Captain Quamo's action reflects great credit upon himself and the United States Army and is in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service. (This award supersedes award of the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroism on 27 March 1963, as announced in General Orders Number 122, Headquarters, Military Assistance Advisory Group, Vietnam, dated 16 April 1964.)

VI. DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS. 1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved 2 July 1926, the Distinguished Flying Cross for heroism while participating in aerial flight is awarded by the Department of the Army to:

Lieutenant Junior Grade Kenneth J. Lund, 667722, United States Navy, is cited for heroism while participating in aerial flight as evidenced by voluntary action above and beyond the call of duty on 15 February 1967 in the Republic of Vietnam. Lieutenant Lund was flying as Aircraft Commander of an armed helicopter in support of a search and destroy operation ten miles southwest of Vi Thanh, when he was forced to orbit the operational area at altitude while his fire team leader returned to the stage field to check out mechanical difficulties. On the second lift into the objective, the landing zone erupted into a trap of mortar fragments and bullets from enemy mortars and automatic weapons of all sizes. Within minutes, five aircraft were down in the operational area. Lieutenant Lund, knowing the dangers of flying low level without a wingman, dove into the face of the enemy to protect the downed crews. Flying in the middle of the enemy fire, he put in target attack after target attack on enemy positions in a gallant effort to hold the enemy back. Realizing the seriousness of the situation and the need for immediate evacuation, the Thirteenth Aviation Battalion Commander flew to the rescue of one of the crews. Lieutenant Lund, with complete disregard for his own personal safety and in a determined effort to protect the downed crew and the Battalion Commander, flew over surrounding enemy positions, attracting their attention and fire. With the evacuation completed, Lieutenant Lund joined his returning leader and another gunship. He continued to brave the enemy fire until, extremely low on fuel, he had to pull off station. His quick and aggressive efforts saved the lives of several crewmen and were instrumental in preventing the Viet Cong from overrunning the down helicopters. Lieutenant Lund's heroic actions in the face of enemy fire are in the highest traditions of the Military Service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Navy.

2. By direction of the President under the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved 2 July 1926, the Distinguished Flying Cross for heroism while participating in aerial flight is awarded by the Department of the Army to:

Lieutenant Commander George W. Rowell, 605693, United States Navy, distinguished himself by heroic action on 26 March 1967, in the Republic of Vietnam. On this date Commander Rowell was serving as Commanding Officer of Helicopter Combat Squadron One. When the 175th Aviation Company (AML), United States Army, was locked in combat against a large, well armed force of Viet Cong, Commander Rowell unhesitatingly volunteered to replace a downed army helicopter by personally flying one of his unit's armed aircraft against the enemy. Three United States Army transport helicopters lay disabled in the landing zone controlled by heavy machine gun fire from the well entrenched Viet Cong. Many American aviators and Vietnamese infantrymen of the Ninth Division (ARVN) were wounded and pinned down by the intense automatic weapons fire. Commander Rowell, with complete disregard for his own personal safety, participated in a series of dangerous, low level attacks against the strong enemy positions. Firing his high explosive rockets and flexible machine guns with devastating effect, Commander Rowell provided heroic coverage for several unarmed transports evacuating the casualties. Although receiving intense Viet Cong anti-aircraft fire during the attacks, Commander Rowell's bravery was instrumental in evacuating all of the casualties from positions only meters from Viet Cong machine gun emplacements. Commander Rowell, quickly observing that the ground forces were preparing a counter attack, launched another series of devastating aerial attacks and contributed immensely to the ultimate annihilation of the large communist force. Commander Rowell's rare and exceptional bravery is in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflects great credit upon himself, his unit and the United States Navy.

VII--SOLDIER'S MEDAL. 1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved 2 July 1926, a Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy is awarded to:

Specialist Five Edward L. Daly, RA19789333, United States Army, distinguished himself by heroic action on 20 April 1967 while assigned to the Logistical Evaluation Division, Project Maintenance Branch, of the United States Army Aviation Test Board. Specialist Daly was enroute from Fort Rucker, Alabama, to Cairns Army Airfield when he noticed that a UH-1 helicopter appeared to be having difficulty maintaining flight. Observing the helicopter as it crashed in a wooded area he rushed to the area in his car. He arrived at the crash site as the injured pilot was unsuccessfully attempting to evacuate the seriously injured and helpless co-pilot from the burning helicopter. Specialist Daly quickly evaluated the situation and realized that they could not remove the man from the helicopter through the window of the cockpit because of his trapped leg, and that another method of extricating the individual had to be found. Without hesitancy and with complete disregard for his own safety Specialist Daly entered the burning wreckage where he was able to extricate the trapped co-pilot's leg and effect his removal from the helicopter. Through his prompt and alert lifesaving action Specialist Daly has brought the highest credit upon himself, and the Military Service.

2. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved 2 July 1926, a Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy is awarded to:

Staff Sergeant Charles A. Henderson, RA20600202, United States Army, Headquarters Company, 1st Battalion, 54th Infantry, distinguished himself by heroism near Hollfield, Germany on 25 October 1965 while involved in local unit maneuvers. When Sergeant Henderson saw a wrecked and burning truck, he rushed to the scene to render all possible assistance. The truck was engulfed in flames. With complete disregard for his personal safety and ignoring the danger of a gasoline explosion he unhesitatingly approached the vehicle and with two other non-commissioned officers evacuated the thirteen injured persons. Despite the intense heat and the imminent threat of explosion, he remained at the scene until all persons were safely evacuated. Seconds later the truck exploded and was completely engulfed in flames. Sergeant Henderson's prompt and heroic action in this emergency is in the highest traditions of the United States Army and reflects great credit upon himself and the military service.

3. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved 2 July 1926, a Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy is awarded to:

Specialist Four Joseph Niegocki, US51558947, United States Army, distinguished himself by heroism on 25 April 1967 at Wuerzburg, Germany. Specialist Niegocki was returning to his unit from a mail run, in a $\frac{3}{4}$ -ton truck driven by a fellow soldier, when he noticed a young boy struggling in the water of the Main river. He immediately directed the driver to stop and then ran some 100 meters to the water's edge. By then the boy was over 15 feet from the bank in a swift current and very cold water some 20 feet deep. Without hesitation or concern for the dangers involved Specialist Niegocki waded into the river and swam to the boy who had already gone under the surface at least once. He succeeded in returning the boy to shore where assisted by a fellow soldier he removed the victim from the water and applied artificial respiration until his breathing and actions returned to normal. Specialist Niegocki, then placed his field jacket on the boy and quietly and unobtrusively drove him home. This unselfish and heroic act, performed quietly and modestly, undoubtedly saved the life of a seven year old German national boy, and is in the highest tradition of the military service reflecting great credit on Specialist Niegocki and the United States Army.

4. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved 2 July 1926, a Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy is awarded to:

Staff Sergeant Marion E. Parker, RA16606692, United States Army, is cited for heroism on 26 April 1967. Just prior to retiring for the evening, Sergeant Parker heard a noise outside his home on Windsor Avenue, Manassas, Virginia. Upon investigating, he noted the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Merchant, 241 Windsor Avenue, was on fire. He quickly called the fire department, then without regard for his own safety he kicked through the back doors and crawled into the flaming house on his hands and knees in an attempt to rescue Mr. and Mrs. Merchant. The Manassas Fire Department arrived just as he was rescuing Mrs. Merchant and completed the rescue of Mr. Merchant. With exceptional courage and initiative Sergeant Parker speeded the rescue by finding a way into the burning residence by locating the injured occupants. He saved valuable minutes which were critical to the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Merchant. In performing this highly commendable deed Sergeant Parker impressively demonstrated quick thinking and a far greater concern for the welfare and safety of others than for his own. His actions reflect the greatest credit upon himself and his unit and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Army. (This award supersedes the award of the Army Commendation Medal to Staff Sergeant Parker for heroism on 26 April 1967, awarded under provision paragraph 7, AR 672-5-1, by the Commanding General, United States Army Security Agency, Arlington Hall Station, Arlington, Virginia 22212).

5. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved 2 July 1926, a Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy is awarded to:

First Lieutenant Billie Sandefur, O2315688, Infantry, United States Army, distinguished himself by heroism on 23 May 1967. By his alertness, ability to make a quick decision, and rapid reaction, he was able to bring to a halt before it could plunge over a fifteen foot embankment, a driverless two and one-half ton truck which was rolling down an incline. Directly beneath the embankment was a small plateau which sloped sharply to a deep gulch. Lieutenant Sandefur's action, which placed his own life in jeopardy, saved a valuable piece of equipment from destruction, but more importantly, also saved eight men in the rear of the truck from certain serious injury or death. Lieutenant Sandefur's action is in keeping with the highest traditions of the service, and reflects great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army.

6. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved 2 July 1926, a Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy is awarded to:

Tenter, Jr.*, RA19800463, Headquarters Company, United States Army Training Center-United States Army Garrison, Fort Ord, California is cited for heroism at Marina Beach, Marina, California on 9 April 1967. Specialist Tenter observed a young boy being carried out to sea by a strong undertow. Without regard for his own safety, and at great risk to his own life, Specialist Tenter braved the chilling and turbulent waters to swim to the aid of the boy. Although forced to fight the strong undertow and a rough surf, Specialist Tenter brought the boy safely to shore, thereby saving his life. Specialist Tenter's courageous act is in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflects great credit upon himself, and the United States Army.

7. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved 2 July 1926, a Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy is awarded to:

Sergeant First Class, Floyd W. Wadsworth, RA13345640, United States Army, of Headquarters Company, 1st Battalion, 1st Brigade, Fort Belvoir, Virginia, distinguished himself by heroism on 24 June 1967. While watching a water skier on the Potomac River from a dock, an officer's 2-year-old son fell into the river. Although the boy's father immediately jumped in after him, the strong currents caused by an incoming tide rapidly swept them downstream beyond the range of life lines thrown to them. In his struggle to return to the dock or the shore with the tug of wet clothing and strong currents, the father became exhausted and he and his son were in imminent danger of drowning. Sergeant Wadsworth, upon hearing the officer's call for help, immediately dived from the dock where he was fishing, took the boy from his father and held the boy's head above water, with complete disregard for his own safety or life. Throughout the entire period of keeping the boy in a safe condition while awaiting aid from a boat, he worked unflinchingly, placing the safety of the boy above his own, and was instrumental in saving the lives of the boy and his father. The outstanding bravery displayed by Sergeant Wadsworth in this sudden emergency is in the most cherished traditions of the United States Army and reflects utmost credit upon himself and the military service.

8. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved 2 July 1926, a Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy is awarded to:

Major Jack L. Zorn, O99766, United States Army (then Captain), is cited for heroism in connection with military operations against a hostile force. Major Zorn distinguished himself by heroic action on 6 May 1965 while serving as advisor to a friendly force in the Republic of Vietnam. Major Zorn aided in the successful defense of a small Vietnamese outpost against a superior force of Viet Cong. Without regard for his personal safety while under intense mortar, small arms, and automatic weapons fire, he moved from position to position along a two hundred meter wall, encouraging the friendly soldiers and directing their fire on hostile positions. When the Viet Cong fire reached its peak, Major Zorn continued in his advisory capacity oblivious to the hostile fire, and by his personal example in engaging the enemy, served as an inspiration to the troops around him. Major Zorn's heroic actions were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Army and reflect great credit upon himself and the military service. (This award supersedes the Army Commendation Medal with "V" Device awarded to Captain Zorn for heroic actions on the 6th May 1965, as announced in General Orders Number 2195, Headquarters United States Military Assistance Command, Vietnam, APO San Francisco, 96243, dated 26 October 1965).

Womack*, RA13811472, United States Army, a member of Company C, 2d Battalion, 27th Infantry, 25th Division, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in connection with military operations against a hostile force in Vietnam from October 1966 to February 1967. Sergeant Womack was assistant squad leader of his squad when it was ambushed on the night of 8 October 1966. His squad was apparently wiped out in a short fire fight. Determining that the rest of the squad members had been killed, Sergeant Womack attempted to escape the ambush area but was captured. His courageous actions during the fire fight were exemplary. While in captivity he was subjected to unusual physical and mental ordeals designed to break his will and spirit. Through his cool courage, fortitude and fine physical stamina Sergeant Womack was able to endure these hazards until he was released from captivity on 23 February 1967. Sergeant Womack's unwavering adherence to the provisions of the military Code of Conduct while a prisoner of war is in the highest traditions of the United States Army and reflects distinct credit upon himself and the military service.

Lieutenant (Junior Grade) Roger A. Deininger, 632330, United States Navy, distinguished himself by heroism while participating in aerial flight during a combat operation supporting the 175th Aviation Company (AML), United States Army, and the Ninth Vietnamese Army Division, on 26 March 1967, in the Republic of Vietnam, while performing duties aboard an armed helicopter. His aircraft participated in a combat assault against a large, well armed force of Viet Cong. United States Army transport helicopters met stiff enemy resistance during the spearhead landing of troops into the communist infested landing zone and three were shot down immediately, killing or wounding several American aviators and Vietnamese infantrymen. In his heroic effort to provide coverage for the downed personnel, he exposed himself to the heavy anti-aircraft fire to place accurate and devastating fire upon the well concealed Viet Cong fortifications. With complete disregard for his own personal safety, he attacked the enemy at dangerously low levels. When a rescue effort was initiated he participated in a chain of armed helicopters placing continuous, deadly fire upon the communist positions. He heroically pressed the attack against the enemy, and his accurate fire upon the Viet Cong during this dangerous maneuver was instrumental in the successful extraction of the wounded and pinned down aviators and infantrymen. His actions served to inspire all those around him and a counter attack was soon launched which annihilated the large enemy force. His courage and will to win proved superior to the Viet Cong's ability to fight, and his outstanding devotion to duty brings great credit upon himself, his unit and the United States Navy.

ADJ2 Jimmy L. Kennedy, 3502328, United States Navy, distinguished himself by exceptionally valorous actions while participating in aerial flight against an armed enemy, as evidenced by voluntary action above and beyond the call of duty. On 26 March 1967, ADJ2 Kennedy was serving as crewchief on an armed UH-1C helicopter, 3rd Armed Platoon, 114th Assault Helicopter Company, 13th Combat Aviation (DELTA) Battalion, Republic of Vietnam. On that day the platoon was employed in support of a 9th ARVN Division search and destroy operation. ADJ2 Kennedy's armed helicopter was one of those involved in a perilous rescue operation of three downed helicopter crews in a landing zone which was drawing intense enemy fire from three sides. By drawing the fire away, and keeping the enemy pinned down, three UH-1D helicopters were able to enter the area of the downed helicopters and successfully evacuate the crews. Throughout the rest of the day, ADJ2 Kennedy continued to support Vietnamese troops and escort lifts of helicopters into and out of the general area. The personal courage displayed, the professional skill and decisiveness under fire throughout the entire day, especially during the rescue operation is in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Navy.

Lieutenant Commander George W. Rowell, 605693, United States Navy, distinguished himself by heroic action on 15 February 1967, while performing as aircraft commander on a UH-1B armed helicopter operating in support of the 21st Infantry Division (ARVN) approximately ten nautical miles south of Vi Thanh, Republic of Vietnam. A team of two armed helicopters was engaged in providing close fire support to ground forces which had been airlifted into an insecure landing zone. The ground forces were pinned down by heavy enemy fire and had suffered extensive casualties. The ground force advisor requested suppressive fire be placed dangerously close to his position to eliminate a Viet Cong fortified machine gun emplacement. Commander Rowell made repeated attacks against the enemy position exposing himself to intense antiaircraft fire directed at his aircraft, until the enemy was silenced. Throughout the day, Commander Rowell displayed the same raw courage by unhesitatingly attacking other enemy positions. His actions contributed greatly to final success of the operation. His heroic actions are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself and the United States Navy.

For over eight hours he flew against the enemy, pin pointing their heavily entrenched positions and directing his aircrafts fire into them. His deadly accurate rocket and machinegun fire coupled with his professional flying ability was essential in covering the rescue of the downed crewmen and the eventual defeat of the Viet Cong force, resulting in over three hundred enemy casualties and the capture of numerous weapons. Lieutenant Degraw's actions were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Navy and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the military service.

XIII. ARMY COMMENDATION MEDAL. 1. By direction of the Secretary of the Army under the provisions of paragraph 33, AR 672-5-1, the Army Commendation Medal with "V" device for heroism is awarded to:

Petty Officer First Class Paul R. Bohn, 51392931, United States Navy, distinguished himself in aerial flight 10 miles southwest of Vi Thanh, Republic of Vietnam. Petty Officer Bohn was flying as crew chief of an armed helicopter of the 336th Assault Helicopter Company in support of a search and destroy mission when his aircraft was forced to orbit the operational area at altitude while his fire team leader returned to the stagefield to check out maintenance difficulties. On the second lift of transports into the landing zone, the landing zone erupted into a trap of mortar fire and automatic weapons fire, downing two transports and forcing three others to land a short distance away. Petty Officer Bohn's aircraft dove into the face of the enemy in a determined effort to protect the downed crews. Petty Officer Bohn sprayed the upcoming treelines to protect their descent, and time and time again leaned out of the aircraft in an effort to place effective fire on the Viet Cong positions. Realizing the seriousness of the situation and the need for immediate evacuation, the battalion commander, Colonel Dempsey, flew to the rescue. Petty Officer Bohn poured a steady stream of fire into the nearby Viet Cong held treelines, protecting his approach and departure. Petty Officer Bohn's self-sacrificing display of courage was halted only when his aircraft, low on fuel, was forced off station. His gallant actions saved the lives of several crewmen and were instrumental in the defeat of a battalion of Viet Cong. Petty Officer Bohn's actions were in the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Navy.

2. By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under the provisions of paragraph 33, AR 672-5-1, the Army Commendation Medal with "V" device for heroism is awarded to:

Airman First Class James H. Chapman, 9977056, United States Navy, is cited for heroism in connection with military operations against a hostile force. Airman Chapman distinguished himself by heroic actions 10 miles southwest of Vi Thanh, Republic of Vietnam, on 15 February 1967. Flying as gunner of an armed helicopter of the 336th Assault Helicopter Company his aircraft was forced to orbit the operational area at altitude while his team leader returned to the stagefield to check out maintenance difficulties. As the second lift of transports touched down in the landing zone, the landing zone erupted into a vicious hail of enemy small arms and automatic weapons fire. Within minutes five aircraft were down in the operational area. As Airman Chapman's aircraft dove into the center of the enemy fire, to protect the downed crews, he sprayed the upcoming treelines with intense and accurate fire protecting the descent of his ship. Flying low level over the top of the enemy he time and time again, without regard for his own life, leaned far outside the aircraft to gain a better vantage point for his devastating machinegun fire. As the battalion commander, Colonel Dempsey, dove in for an emergency pickup, Airman Chapman saturated the enemy positions in a determined effort to protect his approach and departure. His courage and self-sacrificing bravery continued until, extremely low on fuel, his aircraft had to pull off station. Airman Chapman's bravery and devotion to duty, although under prolonged and intense enemy fire, are in the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Navy.
